SPEAKERS

Aaron Thomas | Urban Forestry & Youth Environmental Stewards Program Manager, North East Trees

Aaron Thomas has been with North East Trees since 1994. As the urban forestry manager he oversees large scale tree planting projects specifically along streets, in parks, and in low income housing developments. In the twenty years that he has been with the organization, he has helped with the planting of over 100,000 trees in the Los Angeles area. Aaron also oversees the youth training and community stewardship programs. He has hired and trained hundreds of at risk youth and worked with thousands of community volunteers from disadvantaged communities. Aaron was recently appointed by Mayor Eric Garcetti as his commissioner for the Community Forest Advisory Committee.

Alvaro Sanchez | Environmental Equity Director, The Greenlining Institute

Alvaro Sanchez is The Greenlining Institute's organizational lead overseeing the implementation of the Greenhouse Gas Reduction Fund and SB 535. He has over nine years of experience working on economic development and land use issues throughout California and worked on leveraging stormwater and green infrastructure investments nationally to catalyze economic development in impacted communities. He is the President of the Board of Directors at Dolores Street Community Services, an immigration and community development organization in San Francisco. Alvaro lives in North Oakland, grew up in Los Angeles, and was born in Mexico City.

Bobby Peña | Co-Founder, BPCubed, Inc.

Bobby is a proven communications professional and a well-respected member of the Latino business community who has helped large and small for- and non-profit organizations and government agencies effectively reach Latino and other ethnic markets. Bobby has led public relations projects for the Sacramento, California and U.S. Hispanic Chambers of Commerce, and has served on the Board of Directors for the California Conservation Corps Foundation.

Catherine Martineau | Executive Director, Canopy

Catherine has extensive professional experience in both the financial and management consulting sectors. In her role as Executive Director of Canopy, she draws on her professional experience as well as her personal interest in community service, education and the environment. A native of France, Catherine started her career in Paris with the BNP Group and moved to the United States in 1986, joining BNP Venture Capital. In 1991 she and her husband created Martineau & Associates, a management consulting practice specializing in new initiatives. Catherine holds a doctoral degree (ABD) in economic theory, a master's degree in mathematical economics, and a bachelor's degree in international economics from the University of Paris. Catherine became Executive Director of Canopy in 2004.

Chuck Mills | Director of Public Policy & Grants, California ReLeaf

Chuck brings 26 years of experience in natural resource conservation to the organization and oversees California ReLeaf's public grants program and public policy portfolio. Most recently, Chuck has focused on building support for both efforts through coalition building that integrates urban forestry into the policy platforms for stakeholders vested in sustainable communities strategies, resource conservation, active transportation and environmental justice. As a Sacramento-based advocate, Chuck has successfully supported or spearheaded legislation that created new conservation funding programs, protected existing ones, and preserved volunteerism in California.

Cindy Blain | Executive Director, California ReLeaf

Cindy joined ReLeaf in late 2014 after more than six years with Sacramento Tree Foundation. At the Tree Foundation, she held various titles including Greenprint Relations Director, and most recently, Director of Research & Innovation. Her responsibilities ranged from hands-on community engagement to innovative projects involving public health, air quality, carbon sequestration, and urban planning. Prior to joining the Tree Foundation, she was the Marketing Director at a nonprofit retreat center in Los Gatos. Her corporate experience includes 10 years at Tandem Computers in Operations Management and Service Marketing. Cindy has a B.A. from Rice University and an M.B.A. from Georgia State University.

Claire Robinson | Founder and Managing Director, Amigos de los Rios

Claire’s multi-disciplinary background in art, architecture, urban planning, and business has led to the Amigos de los Rios’ unique success in creating a regional Green Infrastructure Vision for East LA County known as the Emerald Necklace. Under Claire’s leadership, Amigos de los Rios has launched an Emerald Necklace Coalition of Agencies, completed 35 community based multi-objective park demonstration projects in past 11 years and have outlined a 1929 Olmsted based green infrastructure vision for the LA Basin known as the Emerald Necklace Expanded Vision Plan. She serves on the USDA’s – National Urban Forestry Advisory Council and as Vice Chair of the national Metropolitan Greenspaces Alliance.

José González | Founder, Latino Outdoors

José is an experienced educator in formal and informal education settings with an array of associated interests in the arts, education, conservation, and the environment. He has broad experience as a K-12 public education teacher, environmental education adviser, outdoor education instructor and coordinator, and university adjunct faculty. Currently he is leading Latino Outdoors and working on other bridging opportunities with Latino communities and conservation.

Kelaine Ravdin | Owner & Founder, Urban Ecos

Kelaine offers ecological and technological consulting to make our cities greener, more sustainable, and more environmentally sound. She has a background in ecology and landscape architecture and has pursued research in these fields as a Fulbright Scholar in Berlin and with the U.S. Forest Service. Recent work includes the development of several OpenTreeMap projects in cities across California, iTree training, and guidance for institutions to use urban forestry for greenhouse gas mitigation and energy conservation.

Louis Penna | Board Member, Incredible Edible Community Garden

Louis Penna is a board member with the Incredible Edible Community Garden (IECG) nonprofit led by Mary Petit and Eleanor Torres working to enrich communities through agroforestry and urban growing projects in the County of San Bernardino. Louis is also Communications Director for San Bernardino County Fifth District Supervisor Josie Gonzales. Born and raised in the Inland Empire, Louis has lived within and worked with some of the most disadvantaged communities in San Bernardino County and understands the challenges and opportunities presented in these areas for successful urban growing initiatives.

Matt Ritter | Board of Directors, California ReLeaf

Matt Ritter studies cultivated trees and trees that escape cultivation. He has a bachelor’s degree in microbiology and a Ph.D. in plant development biology. A botany professor and director of the plant conservatory at Cal Poly, he has authored numerous scientific papers about plants and contributed to botanical references including the upcoming second edition of the Jepson Manual: Higher Plants of California and the Flora of North America Project. He is the chair of the City of San Luis Obispo Tree Committee. He has authored two books: Plants of San Luis Obispo and A Californian's Guide to the Trees among Us.

Rachel Malarich | Director of Forestry, TreePeople

Rachel is TreePeople’s Director of Forestry, an ISA Certified Arborist and a former classroom teacher. Originally hired as part of the organization’s Regional initiative, she has helped shape the nature and direction of TreePeople’s work in communities with low canopy coverage. Rachel now focuses her time improving the efficacy of programs that support TreePeople’s mission of community members taking personal responsibility for the urban forest. She also works on local urban forestry policy issues.

Ryan Allen | Environmental Services Manager, Koreatown Youth & Community Center

For 7 years Ryan has worked to help Los Angeles residents plant and care of thousands of trees. His commitment to the Los Angeles urban forest and community has given him the opportunity to serve on the City of Los Angeles Community Forestry Advisory Committee and as the California ReLeaf Network Committee Southern California Region representative. He is also a Certified Arborist.

Save Our Water and Our Trees!

saveourwater.com/trees

California ReLeaf has partnered with SaveOurWater.com and a consortium of other urban forest groups like you to spread awareness of a simple yet urgent message: the importance of keeping California's trees alive during the drought.

WHY YOU SHOULD SAVE YOUR TREES

As you cut back on water use during this historic drought, you may not realize the impact this will have on your landscape trees.

Trees in irrigated landscapes become dependent on regular watering. When watering is reduced – and especially when it's stopped completely – trees will die.

Tree loss is a very costly problem: not only in expensive tree removal, but also in the loss of all the benefits trees provide. Your trees provide an immense range of health, energy, environmental, and economic benefits:

- Trees improve air and water quality
- Trees provide shade to the landscape and reduce water needs
- Trees help keep your home cooler
- Trees slow stormwater runoff and help recharge groundwater
- Trees reduce soil erosion
- Trees add value – sometimes thousands of dollars' worth – to your home and neighborhood

Trees take a long time to grow. Without helping our trees through the drought, we risk losing these benefits. While the drought may not last long, it can harm or kill trees, and it will take 10, 20, or even 50+ years to grow trees and get back the benefits.

HOW TO SAVE YOUR TREES

1. Deeply and slowly water mature trees 1 - 2 times per month with a simple soaker hose or drip system toward the edge of the tree canopy – NOT at the base of the tree. Use a Hose Faucet Timer (found at hardware stores) to prevent overwatering.
2. Young trees need 5 gallons of water 2 - 4 times per week. Create a small watering basin with a berm of dirt.
3. Shower with a bucket and use that water for your trees as long as it is free of non-biodegradable soaps or shampoos.
4. Do not over-prune trees during drought. Too much pruning and drought both stress your trees.
5. Mulch, Mulch, MULCH! 4 - 6 inches of mulch helps retain moisture, reducing water needs and protecting your trees.
