LEARNING AS WE GROW

- First project was donated property across the street from childhood home.
- From overgrown weeds and debris to a 20-row producing garden.
- We've received overwhelming support from family, friends and volunteers
- Of the three years we were contracted to service this site, the garden's production last year was abundant!

GROWING ON THE WALL

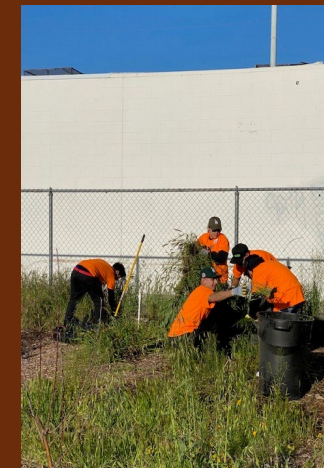

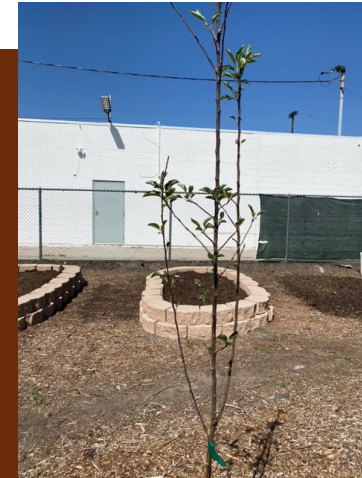

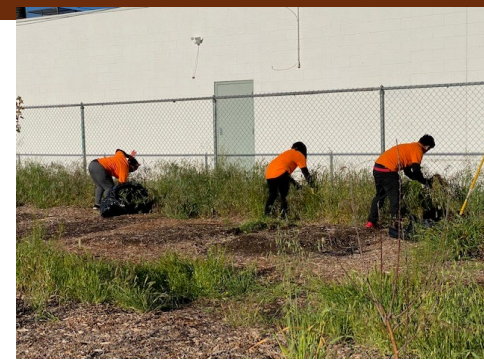

- David Friedman, Viva La Boba and real estate owner, approached SistersWe to create a garden wall.
- Located in an alley in downtown San Bernardino, the project brought out artists and other events to the site.
- Student volunteers came out and learned about planting a variety of succulents.

GRATITUDE

- David Friedman of Realicore also donated the property for our current site.
- Located on a quarter acre in downtown San Bernardino, the site needed lots of love.
- Student volunteers earn community service hours while learning about planting and maintaining trees and the garden.
- The site which included a visit from newly elected Mayor Helen Tran, has attracted the interest of the County of San Bernardino

DEDICATION

- SistersWe is dedicated to providing the community with beautiful, shared spaces.
- Growing healthy and organic foods to help feed communities.
- Teaching the next generation the value of protecting the earth, planting trees to protect the environment and supporting their own communities.
